Violent Truck Driver Behind Deadly Crash in Texas Released From Jail A man who struck and killed a teenage girl while driving a beer truck was released from jail Monday morning (Aug. 7) because his case had been thrown out by a Texas judge. The crash occurred around 10:45 a.m. CT Sunday on a highway in Seagoville, Texas, north of Dallas, when 18-year-old Sharon Cameron was struck by a Pepsi truck, CBS affiliate WFAA reports. Officers found Cameron's dead body in the passing lane of eastbound Interstate 35W. Jail records show that the man behind the wheel of the Pepsi truck is released from the Williamson County Jail on Monday morning, August 7, 2016. (Image: CBS 11 News) The man driving the beer truck, identified by CBS 11 News as 27-year-old Frank Anaya Jr., was charged with murder after the accident. He turned himself in Sunday afternoon (Aug. 6) in Navarro County, Texas, where his family lives, according to WFAA.

Anaya's lawyers said in court documents that alcohol and drugs were a factor in the collision, according to the local news outlet.

If Anaya had been driving a different vehicle, the lawyers argued, he wouldn't have been driving in the passing lane of traffic. Anaya could have been charged with a felony if pressure on the client to get the job done, I took a few days to relax and consider the specific approach I wanted to take for the shading. I wanted something that was organic, and yet at the same time, I felt like the shading had to be strong and clear enough that you could tell when it would change, and when it wouldn't.
