Error 2417 has been a big nuisance for Apple Inc. customers around the world, even some users whose devices do not show this error message still have to deal with it. Apple is investigating the issue but no solution has been announced as of yet. Error 2417 is reported by your Mac computer when it cannot find a valid Apple ID when you are using a Mac OS X Lion. Error 2417 means that you are attempting to connect to the Internet using a new computer or a new user account, but the system is not allowing you to create an account. When the computer cannot create an account or when you are attempting to connect to the Internet using a new account, you will be greeted with a message that says your Apple ID has not been registered. When you click on the button to register your Apple ID, the system will launch and you will be required to enter the same information as you would have when you created the account on your Mac. If this is the case, we have two solutions to address this problem. Follow our solutions below and you should be able to resolve the issue. Solution #1: Reset your Mac A simple way to fix the issue with Error 2417 is to simply reset your computer. This will require you to back up all of your data, of course, so before you begin please make sure you have a backup of your data stored on your hard drive or on an external drive. Resetting the Mac will delete any new data and replace it with your existing data. Before you start resetting the Mac, make sure you have a backup of your data stored somewhere else. If you have not made a backup, we highly recommend that you do so before you begin. To begin, you will need to connect your Mac to a PC or a Mac
